LINDLEY PARK COMMUNITY WATCH PROGRAM

The Lindley Park Neighborhood Association along with the Greensboro Police Department are in the beginning stages of recreating a street by street Community Watch Program. Our watch program will consist of a Watch Captain, a Block Captain and Watch Members.

The Watch Captain is the liaison between the neighborhood and the police, providing crime prevention information to members, and arranging meetings with the neighborhood and law enforcement. They also provide coordination between Block Captains.

The Block Captain is the key person on your street. They will maintain an active email alert system of the Watch Members that want to participate. They will communicate with other Block Captains to ensure that accurate and timely information is sent out to inform all Members of criminal activity in the neighborhood.

The Watch Members are the eyes and ears of the neighborhood. If unusual activity is spotted they will call 911 and then email, text, or call the Block Captain and inform them of the activity.

A Community Watch group empowers people to prevent crime, forges a bond between law enforcement and the communities that they serve, and builds a foundation for broader neighborhood involvement along with the neighborhood association. Our neighborhood is a safe and healthy place to live. We can make sure it stays that way and with a little effort can make it even better.

If you are interested in being a part of this send me an email at bill@billeckard.com or text 336.681.1339.

LPN 100 is a multi-year project that will help build interest and excitement leading into Lindley Park Neighborhood's 100 Year Anniversary in 2017. The goal of the project is to generate ideas and insight from residents on how they would like to see the neighborhood grow and develop, to leave as wonderful a neighborhood to future residents as was left to us.

To do this LPN 100 will transform 6-8 individual sites around Lindley Park, one at a time and for ONE DAY ONLY, over the next 2.5 Years. The concept of transforming a site for one day is called a “Pop Up.” This concept has been used in both restaurant and retail settings, but recently it has also been used in the Community Development setting. The idea is to take a blighted, underused, or overlooked area and transform it for a day into a place that people would visit and use, a destination. The pop-ups will give people a vision of what a place could be and not what it is.

Stay tuned as more information about LPN 100 will made available as the project progresses. If you would like to be involved, please contact either Stephen Johnson at stephen@elamgardens.com or Adam Spivey at rspivey@elon.edu

LPNA Community Meeting and General Elections

WE WANT YOU!

We're electing new Lindley Park Neighborhood Association officers at our general meeting on January 27, 2015. Nominations for any position can be made from the floor at the meeting. And all LPNA committees are looking for enthusiastic volunteers to help. But what exactly do these folks do? Basically, the Chairperson presides over general and executive meetings (eleven annually) and the Vice Chair fills in if the Chairperson is absent. The Secretary records meeting minutes, and the Treasurer maintains our bank account. A full list of Association positions and responsibilities are in the newsletter (and also online) so check it out.

If you care about the future of Lindley Park and have a willingness to get involved, consider joining as an association officer or committee member. You will 1) meet some great folks, 2) learn a lot about your neighborhood, 3) make a difference, and 4) have fun! If you have questions or need more information, please email us at lpnagso@gmail.com.

LINDLEY PARK GIFTS

Every year, around Thanksgiving, I try to re-read a book called "Unplug the Christmas Machine." It promises to be a "complete guide to putting love and warmth back into the season." The holidays get nuts. One way to make it less nutty is to keep it simple and keep it local. And, folks, we live in the right spot for that.

According to the book, one of the main things that children really want and need for the holidays is relaxed and loving time with the family and traditions. I think this is true for all of us. There are so many ways to celebrate in and around our neighborhood and my family enjoys all the local activities, such as our neighborhood luminaries, the Candle Tea at the Moravian Church, trimming the tree and special holiday activities at the Corner Market, Running the Balls in Sunset Hills, and more.

Another suggestion is that children need realistic expectations about gifts. Let me tell you a funny story. My 11 year old son had pulled a toy circular out of the newspaper and poured over it for an hour circling everything he wanted. I tossed it in the recycling. When he fished it out to show me, he yelled "LUUUUUCCCCY!" – his older sister had jokingly circled every single thing in the book. I thought it was funny but he was so frustrated because, he admitted, he couldn't remember what he wanted. So I'm not saying don't get your kid that special video game. But think about this. How about a roll of quarters and an offer to go to Lost Ark on Spring Garden Street and kick it old school with some pinball and Space Invaders? How about a gift certificate to Common Grounds? Or something from the killer toy store in the back, Menace Studios? A gift card to the Grinning Gamer and delve into the world of gaming with your child. Or is a mother daughter mani/pedi more your style? Try Pinkiescoat. Have you checked out the incredible candy at Bestway lately – I want that in my stocking!

Okay so your holiday gift list isn't comprised entirely of kids. You have mother-in-laws, teachers, uncles and bosses to remember too, right?

Here are some suggestions that not only won't break the bank, also won't require leaving the neighborhood...

- The Corner Market gift certificates – artsy wooden cards worth 10 or 20 bucks.
- CSA from Faucette Farms
- Restaurant gift certificates (Sticks and Stones, Emma Keys, Filling Station, Josephine's, the Whiskey Bar, the Tasting Room, Hops, Fat Dogs)
- Records from CFBG or Hippo (or gift certificates)
- Beer, wine and lots of local goodies from Bestway
- Lindley Park Blend coffee by the pound from Common Grounds
- Gift card from Spring Garden Bakery

LINDLEY PARK T-SHIRTS NOW AVAILABLE

Newly designed Lindley Park T-shirts are now available in two colors - charcoal gray and green. Both men and women sizes are available. Size shown in photos is men's XLG. Cost is $12 each. If the T-shirt sales are profitable, we will consider ordering child size t-shirts.

The T-shirt design, created by long time neighborhood resident Larry Barnes, pays homage to our trees, the recently restored stone columns and a neighborhood that was built on tradition and survives due to dedicated and caring Lindley Park residents.

T-shirt printing was provided by neighborhood residents – Beth Biester and Jennifer Dunn of Triad Paw Prints. So – when you buy a Lindley Park Neighborhood T-shirt you truly are "buying local."

We hope to have displays in neighborhood retail locations after the first of the year. In the meantime, please contact Bill Eckard – bill@billeckard.com, 632-1448 to order your shirt.

CITY BEGINS "RECYCLE FIRST. IT MATTERS." EDUCATION CAMPAIGN

GREENSBORO, NC (November 12, 2014) – Did you know that you can recycle pizza boxes in Greensboro? Or that you can leave the lid on your empty plastic bottle and recycle both? Or that in 2013, recycling saved Greensboro more than $2.1 million?

Recent surveys have shown that, while Greensboro residents want to recycle, many are confused about what to recycle. In order to increase the amount of correct items in the city's recycling containers, the City is beginning a new recycling education campaign: Recycle First. It Matters. The campaign focus is to remind residents to think about recycling first, instead of automatically throwing things in the trash.

Recycle First. It Matters also simplifies and streamlines the City's recycling guide with a "Paper Plastic Metal Glass" motif in order to help residents remember what types of items can be recycled. If an item is not made from one of these four materials, it is not recyclable in Greensboro's program.

The City's Waste Reduction Supervisor Alex Arnett states, "Recycling brings so much to our community -waste reduction, energy savings, conservation of natural resources and job creation. By making it easier for Greensboro residents to remember what to recycle, we can continue to increase these benefits to our community."

The Recycle First. It Matters campaign comes at an important time for Greensboro, because now more than ever, it pays to recycle. The City currently receives $30 in revenue for each ton of recyclable material delivered to the city's recycling processor, ReCommunity Recycling. In 2013, this generated more than $850,000 in revenue, as well as diverted $1.2 million in landfill costs, giving the recycling program a value of more than $2 million.

Look for the new recycling education materials in postcards mailed to residents, on billboards and City trucks, on the City's website, on GTN ads and videos, and ads on local television stations. To learn whether or not an item is recyclable, call the City's Contact Center at 373-CITY (2489), visit www.greensboro-nc.gov/recycle or email recycle@greensboro-nc.gov.
